

PUBLISHED DAILY & TRI-WEEKLY BY EDGAR SNOWDEN.

TUESDAY EVENING, DEC. 23, 1880

FROM WASHINGTON.

Special Correspondence of the Alexandria Gazette.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 23, 1880.

Since the death of ex Attorney General Ackerman, Samuel Rice, of Mobile, is spoken of in connection with the U. S. circuit judgeship, made vacant by the appointment of Judge Woods to the Supreme Court.

The recent talk of General Sherman, in which he opposed the proposed ex-parte generalship of General Grant, the actual retirement of General Ord, the sending of Schofield to the Southwest, and the appointment of Howard to West Point, judging from the criticism it receives from the army officers stationed here, is apparently highly objectionable to them. They are, indeed, to be as much in favor of a Grant apothecary as of the General's admirers in civil life, but the consensus is that those officers are mere worshippers of what they suppose is the rising sun.

A delegation of the Porca Indians having arrived here and stated that they are perfectly satisfied with their present location, and that all the talk about the inhumanity of their removal from their old reservation was mere gammon, a commission will start next week to their new home to determine their real wants and supply them to the extent of the government's ability.

Orders were issued in all of the government departments to day to the effect that all of them will be closed on Christmas and New Year's Day, and at noon to-morrow and every day during Christmas week.

General Ransom says the papers in the case of Col. W. H. Chapman, Inspector in the internal revenue service, whose removal has been urged by Major Bayly, are very voluminous, but that the examination will be concluded, and that he will report upon them to-morrow. As stated in this correspondence yesterday the strong probability is that the Colonel will retain his position. If so, however, another and a more vigorous attempt will be made to oust not only him, but all the other officers in the 8th district of Virginia who failed to support the straight republican ticket, when the new administration comes into office.

The Capitol was almost entirely deserted to-day, both houses of Congress having adjourned for the holidays, and none of the committees being in session. The sole occupant of the Senate chamber was Capt. Bassett, Doorkeeper, who has been there so long that he is unhappy when away from it; and about half a dozen members of the House, whose homes are too far off to allow a trip to be made to them during the recess, and a few clerks were the only people seen on that side of the building. All the Virginia senators and members have gone away. Senator Johnston to Richmond, and Senator Withers and all the members of the House to their respective homes. Mr. Johnston is not included in the above for two reasons—the first of which is, because the Richmond Whig says he has no home in Virginia, as he lives, when in the State, in a room in the third story of the Custom House in Petersburg, which building is not under the jurisdiction of Virginia, and the second, because nobody was asked about him when he was here.

The delegation of Sioux Indians now in the city called at the White House to-day, and expressed themselves as highly pleased with what they had seen and with the result of their visit to Washington. They were at the Capitol a day or two ago and were much interested in the pictures in the rotunda in which Indians are represented.

Notices of Major Bayly's intention to contest the election of Mr. Barbour as a member of the next House of Representatives was served upon the latter by Deputy United States Marshal O'Neal on Tuesday, the last day on which it could have been served, but Mr. O'Neal performed the service within fifteen minutes after it was entrusted to him, in order that the Major should have no fault to find with him on that score at least. Mr. Stovall has also served a similar notice upon Mr. Cabell.

The impression among many democratic members of the House, and so expressed in a private conversation, is that the real business of the session will be so delayed that an extra session of Congress will be required by the necessities of the Government, though it is generally believed that Mr. Garfield is opposed to such a session.

Virginians now here say that Mr. Massy will not submit to General Mahone's present intention to continue him in the subordinate position he now fills, and that he intends to be a candidate before the next election for governor, whether General Mahone likes it or not. They also say that Major John Daniel does not desire the Democratic nomination for Governor; that Judge Harris is more likely to obtain the nomination than any one yet spoken of; that Mr. James Barbour would prefer a Court of Appeals judgeship to the gubernatorial chair, and that should the democrats and Mahonesites run separate State tickets, as it is almost certain they will, General Wickham will run as the republican candidate for Governor and thereby either be elected or enable the democrats to elect their ticket as they did in the recent election.

Intelligence has reached here of the death of the second wife of General Pender, ex-member of the House from the 9th Virginia district.

There is no doubt that Judge Woods was highly objectionable to many Southern senators, not on the grounds of his personal character or legal attainments, but because they thought the South was entitled to representation in the Supreme Court, if not by a democrat, at least by a Southern man, but he was confirmed nevertheless because the Northern democrats would not support those from the South on such an issue.

A scene occurred in the French Chamber of Deputies yesterday over the removal of crucifixes from schools. The debate showed that the law gives the local authorities discretion relative to the retention of such religious emblems, but that the police had in some instances accomplished their removal of the crucifixes into the van at the door. Mr. Herold explained that he had punished those who had acted, and that he had himself received authorization from Premier Ferry before he ordered their removal. The tone of Mr. Herold's speech produced a great effect on the Right, particularly his statement that the question was one merely of school furniture. A vote was subsequently taken, and M. Herold offered his resignation, but finally withdrew it.

A marriage license was issued in Washington yesterday to H. Clay Tunis, of Talbot county, Md., and Viola White, of Prince George's county, Md.

A HORRIBLE DEATH.—A terrible accident occurred yesterday afternoon at Baltimore on the floating elevator Hattie, in which Alexander Kirk lost his life. Mr. Kirk was superintendent of the floating elevator Hattie, which was unloading grain, and in adjusting the leg into the vessel's hold he found that the friction on the wheel which hoists the leg was loose, and he proceeded below to the boiler room to remedy the difficulty. About five minutes afterwards the engine, Frank Kvaasnaugh, heard a thumping noise that jarred the whole elevator, and he called to Assistant Superintendent Sanders and told him to go down to the boiler room, as he thought something was the matter with the pulleys. Mr. Sanders, on reaching the boiler room was horrified to find the body of Superintendent Kirk revolving around a shaft that makes 150 revolutions a minute. He called to the engineer, who immediately stopped the engine. The trimmers from the adjoining vessel's hold went into the shaft room and released the body just as the unfortunate man breathed his last. The clothing had in some manner become entangled on the shaft at the side of the boiler, and the unfortunate man was carried with fearful momentum to his death. The clothing was wound so tightly around the shaft that it was necessary to use a knife to release the body. Fragments of fish and bones were scattered in every direction. The space between the floor and the shaft where the body revolved is not more than two feet, and directly beneath the shaft is an iron flange pulley, upon which the body struck with fearful force on every revolution, thus grinding the lower limbs to a mere pulp. Bones protruded from the chest and stomach and from the arms, indicating the terrible destruction accomplished.

A KENTUCKY TRAGEDY.—The neighborhood of Howell Valley, Ky., is the scene of the wildest excitement on account of a terrible tragedy occurred there Tuesday. David J. Carter and Bud Harrington, both respected citizens and farmers in good circumstances, had a lawsuit, which was heard Tuesday. After the hearing they quarreled and Harrington drew a pistol and fired at the other, hitting him in the mouth and coming out at the back of his neck. Young Carter, a son of the murdered man, ran home and returned in a few minutes with a double-barreled shot gun, both barrels of which he discharged into the body of Harrington, apparently killing him instantly. He fell, seemingly lifeless, and lay perfectly still where he had fallen, but old man Carter seized a smith's sledge lying near and walking up to the body deliberately crushed the head of his victim and then fell over him, apparently in a dying condition.

SLAVERY IN BRAZIL.—Advices from Rio de Janeiro, dated the 1st inst., say: "In the Chamber of Deputies the President of the Council, in reply to the interpellation of Senator Quarte respecting the American Minister's attendance at an anti-slavery banquet on November 20th, said the government has resolved in its non-interference with the gradual extinction of slavery, and had nothing to do with the abolition agitation as long as it was kept on legal grounds. He said he considered Mr. Ballard's contention with the question merely individual, but they were certain the opposition would rally round the government should, at any time, any foreign government seek to intervene in the internal affairs of Brazil."

FATAL RAILROAD ACCIDENT.—A fearful railroad accident occurred on the Carolina Central Railroad, three miles from Lincoln, yesterday afternoon. The entire passenger train, except the engine, which passed over safely, went through the trestle, which at that point is fifty feet high. It is known that all passengers were killed, and a passenger named J. W. Goodson was disabled by the accident, and subsequently burned up in the flames which communicated from the coal stoves on the road to the shattered and splintered train. The conductor, Captain Harris Johnston, escaped with slight injuries. There were very few persons in the train, and it is not known that any one else was killed.

Mrs. W. A. B. Smith, living near Occoquan, was thrown from a buggy on Sunday last and seriously injured. The horse attached to the vehicle ran off and the buggy was run against the corn house, throwing the lady out, cutting her severely in several places and fracturing her skull. Hopes are, however, entertained of her recovery.

The readjusters' State committee were in session in Richmond last night, nearly all of the prominent readjusters being in attendance. Gen. Mahone, the chairman of the committee, and Col. W. E. Cameron, of Petersburg, were present. An informal discussion of the public debt, public schools and other important issues was held, and a resolution was adopted to the effect that the program to be carried out by the readjuster party. It is understood that a full report on State ticket will be put in the field, and the readjuster leaders will probably adopt a line of policy in accordance with that idea.

Paradoxes.—It is difficult to believe that the biography of Dr. Johnson was written by a gossipping literary bore. That Cowley, who boasts with so much gaudy of the versatility of his passion among so many sweethearts, wanted the confidante even to address one.

That the thoughtful, east-iron (says of John Foster) were originally written as love epistles to the lady who became his wife.

That Byron would never help his old O to salt at the table, nor be helped himself.

That the deeds of temperance, "The Old Oaken Bucket," was written by a journeyman printer under the supervision of a bravo.

That so many of the exquisite letters of Lady Montague were destroyed by her mother, who "did not approve that she should disgrace her family by adding to its literary honors."

That Luther, the greatest of reformers, and Baxter, the greatest of the Puritans, and Wesley, the greatest religious leader of his country, based on wilfulness.

That Schiller wrote his "William Tell" with out having seen the glories of Lake Lucerne.

That Scott never saw "Fair Melrose" by moonlight. [The truth was Scott would not go there for fear of bogies.]

That Napoleon, with a million armed men under his command, set down in rage and affront to order Fouché to send a little woman over the frontier, lest she should say something about him to be laughed at in the drawing rooms at Paris.

That Lafontaine, who, in his Fables, makes animals, trees and stones talk "was in his conversation proverbially dull and stupid."

That Socrates learned music and Plutarch Latin after they were 70 years old.

That Baxter, the author of one hundred and sixty-eight works upon theology, wrote at the end of his life, "I am glad that good men are not so good as I once thought they were, and I find that few are so bad as malicious enemies or censorious professors do imagine."

COMMUNICATED.
HORN FLWING.—Mr. "Citizen" feels called upon to make an apology to "one of the ur-chins" for wounding his feelings in his protest against horn blowing, and would say that the extract from the Baltimore Gazette, as quoted in our issue of the 19th inst., was intended to be a parody, and not a serious attack on the ur-chin in the above mentioned "ur-chin" in Tuesday evening's Gazette, together with the powerful arguments contained therein, flattered the good work. Mr. Citizn withdraws his objection.

In October, when the woods are glorious in their scarlet and golden drapery, is the time to seek the Autumn leaves and ferns. A severe cold is often the result of such pleasure trips. Dr. Ball's Cough Syrup always cures Coughs and Colds. Price 25 cents.

COUGHS.—"Brown's Bronchial Troches" are used with advantage to alleviate COUGHS, SORE THROAT, HOARSENESS and BRONCHIAL AFFECTIONS. For thirty years these Troches have been in use with constantly increasing favor. They are not new and untried, but, having been tested by wide and constant use for nearly an entire generation, they have attained well merited rank among the few staple remedies of the age.

"Brown's Bronchial Troches" are sold directly on the organs of the voice. They have an extraordinary effect in all disorders of the Throat and Larynx, restoring a healthy tone when relaxed, either from cold or over exertion of the voice, and produce a clear and distinct enunciation. Speakers and singers find them most useful.

A COUGH, COLD, CATARRH or SORE THROAT requires immediate attention, as neglect of trifling results in some incurable Lung Disease. "Brown's Bronchial Troches" will almost invariably give relief. Imitations are offered for sale, but the genuine "Brown's Bronchial Troches" are sold only in boxes.

From Ireland.

LONDON, Dec. 23.—It is worthy of note that the Dublin press in Ireland does not notice a single distinctly Irish movement.

The Dublin press says he intends to proceed against Mr. James Jones, who was recently "suspended" for libel in consequence of Mr. Jones' statement to the effect that the priest had induced the laborers to quit his employment.

The Dublin correspondent of the Times says: "The introduction of the land league into the North of Ireland has had the effect of setting the existing tenant right borders, who had been for some time quiet, again in motion in some districts and two concurrent movements are now in progress, one of which is distinct from the league, although agreeing to some extent with its principles."

The printers of placards for league meetings throughout the country have received directions to stop the issue of the placards, and to produce the orders for the publication of the placards.
